TURKS ASSUME CONTROL OF DARDANELLES NEARLY HUNDRED MEN ENTOMBED IN MINE

RESCUE PARTY HAS BROUGHT BODIES OF TRIO OF VICTIMS TO SURFACE IN SILENCE

Fear Some, if Not All of the Men Entombed, Are Dead

SECOND RESCUE PARTY IS SENT INTO DEPTHS

Women Stand By Shaft and Await News Despite
The Rain

(Associated Press.)
SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 6.—The first rescue party to enter the Reilly coal mine after the explosion this morning, reported at noon today that they had found three bodies and feared that some, if not all, of the other 90 men entombed, are dead.

The rescue party entered the mine
under the direction of Superintendent O. J. Flannigan had proceeded to the third entry on the right of the main entry, when they came upon the bodies. The dead miners were brought to the front of the shaft and the party went back for further exploration.

The rescuers came to the surface
after their second trip into the mine,
but declined to give out any further information.

A second rescue party immediately went into the workings. The rescuers were composed of volunteers chosen from hundreds of men who had gathered at the shaft. Shortly before the second crew went under ground,
word was received that the rescue car
from Pittsburgh would arrive early this afternoon.

Silent group of wet eyed women
and children huddled together close to the mouth of the shaft mutely awaiting a gleam of hope from the miners who went down to search for their husbands and fathers.

A steady rain was falling but the women, many of them bareheaded,
paid little attention to the weather.

90 ENTOMBED

(Associated Press.)
SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 6.—A terrific explosion somewhere in the workings of the Reilly mine of the Reilly Coal company here at 7:30 o'clock this morning entombed between 90 and 95 miners who had gone to their work scarcely half an hour before.

The extent of the explosion has not been determined but at the office of the company it was said it was "pretty bad."

News of the explosion brought wives and children to the shaft mouth
where they gathered in dumb horror,
hoping against hope.

'BAMA WELCOMES RETURNING HEROES

(Associated Press.)
TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 6.—
Tuscaloosa and the University of Alabama will join hands today in welcoming the Crimson Tide on their return from Philadelphia, where they tamed the much vaunted University of Pennsylvania eleven Saturday by a 9 to 7 score.

Classes at the University have been suspended from 11 until 1 o'clock and at 11:30 practically the entire student body, headed by the University band and augmented by hundreds of Tuscaloosans, gathered at the railroad station where the players are scheduled to arrive about noon.

Trucks have been bedecked with the gay colors of Alabama and the players will be placed upon them and hailed through the streets of the town and out to the University by the freshman class.

Annual Meeting North Alabama Conference Is Brought to Close

MISSION UNIT WILL OPEN IT'S SESSIONS HERE TUESDAY AT THE WESTMINSTER

Executive Meeting Will Precede Public Session At The

ARRANGEMENTS MADE TO GREET THE DELEGATES

Miss Peetire, of New York, Makes First Address Tuesday Night

The Synodical meeting of the Woman's Missionary Association, of the U. S. A. Presbyterian Church in Alabama, opens its sessions in the Westminster Presbyterian Church
Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter M. Crawford, of Birmingham, the president, will open the meeting.

Preceding the regular open meeting, to which the public is cordially invited, an executive meeting of the officers of the association will be held at the Westminster Church, followed by a noon luncheon served by ladies of the church.

Many of the delegates are expected to arrive Tuesday morning and arrangements are being made to meet them at the trains.

Miss Ellen Gronendyke will conduct the devotional exercises at the afternoon meeting following the call to order by Mrs. Crawford. Reports of officers and committees will then fol-

dress to the gathering. Tuesday night Miss Petrie will speak, and the well known pageant, "God's Word on the World," will be given. Following the pageant, "The Light Bearers," under the direction of Mrs. L. P.
Goodwin, will entertain the audience.

The convention of the Presbyterian women will not get into full swing
until Wednesday, and it is expected that the business will be hurried through so the close can come Wednesday night.

City Map Is Missing, City Clerk Hunts It

While City Clerk Henry Hartung
admits that he is perhaps as familiar with the city of Albany as any other of her citizens, but the fact remains that he frequently has occasion to consult the city map. This brings up the fact that his map of the city
is missing from the city hall office,
and its whereabouts are unknown.
He is very desirous of again getting it in his possession, and would thank any one who knows where it is, to part from this information for his benefit.

ATTORNEYS DEBATE WHETHER TO PLACE MRS. FRANCES HALL BEFORE GRAND JURY

Conference Of All Investigators
Of Murder Mystery Is Held Today

CHAIN OF EVIDENCE IS BEING PERFECTED

Several Members of Hall Household Will Be Questioned
Again

(Associated Press.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 6.—A conference between Attorney General McGren and all the investigators of the Hall-Mills murder case has been called to perfect the long chain of evidence to be submitted to the grand jury. This conference will determine whether Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall will be permitted to appear before the grand jury.

Several of the members of the Hall
household and close friends of Mrs.
Hall probably will be summoned before the investigators during the conference.

Mrs. A. C. Fraley, who lives in a house on Derussy Lane overlooking the crab apple tree on the Phillips
farm, where the bodies were found,
was brought to the courthouse by state troopers today.

Lopise Geist, a maid in the Hall home, also was expected to be called for further questioning today.

Plane Falls But Pilot Is Not Hurt

(Associated Press.)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 6.—A Curtiss airplane of the army land type, fell here about 11 o'clock today.
The pilot was uninjured, though the machine was badly damaged in taking a nose dive to earth after passing under a telegraph wire near the A. G.
S. crossing, in the eastern part of the city. The pilot left the scene immediately after the fall and has not been since located, though it is stated that he was from Illinois and it is thought that he had purchased the plane and was on his homeward journey.

Married In Front Of Albany City Hall

Sidney S. Francis and Miss Jimmie Brindley, of Hartselle, were married in front of the city hall, Albany,
Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Dr.
W. P. Wilks, pastor of Central Baptist Church, officiating. The couple left on the Pan-American for Florida points on their honeymoon trip, and will probably make their home at some point in that state.

NATIONALISTS TELL ALLIES PERMISSION MUST BE OBTAINED TO "PASS STRAITS"

All Warships Also Must Salute
The New Government Of Turkey

BRITISH DETERMINED NOT TO CHANGE POLICY

Nationalists Appear To Have Disregarded Terms of Mudanian Conference

(Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 6.—The Turkish nationalist government has handed a note to the allies to the effect that the warships of all nations must ask it for authorization to pass the straits of the Dardanelles. They must also salute the new government of Turkey.

It is stated in authoritative circles that under no circumstances will the British point of view be changed. The British intend to uphold the Mudania agreement and remain in the neutral zone with their troops.

So far as could be learned today
the Sultan has not abdicated. It is believed the British authorities are preparing to protect him and the prince.

Last night after taking over control of Constantinople the nationalists demanded withdrawal of allied troops and served notice that allied or American soldiers would not be permitted to land from their warships, at any ports, except by special permission.

The allies have determined that they will refuse categorically the nationalists' demands.

With a seeming disregard for the agreements in the Mudania convention, Turkish troops have not moved in the areas known as neutral.

Rain Will Help In Fall Crop Planting

Rain is again threatening today over the Tennessee Valley. The present fall has been the driest for many years. During the past two months very little moisture has fallen and fall plowing has been greatly retarded. It has been impossible to get to the bottom lands, owing to the fact that they had become very hard and turning of these will now hardly be accomplished before spring. Considerable wheat, rye and oats is noticed being sown on the uplands, and despite the dry condition, is coming up to stands. Planters from every section of the county announce that they are practically done gathering, and should moisture come in the right proportions, lots of fall plowing will result.

Cotton in the county is practically all marketed with the exception of that held in the warehouses, the property of the Alabama Farm Bureau members, more than 5,000 bales
being at the local cotton compress.

Those who signed up with the farm bureau proposition and have put their cotton in storage are well pleased with the results so far, said one prominent planter today, and it is his opinion that by far a larger number will sign between now and the next cotton crop.

Stockyards Suffer Costly Fire Today

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 6.—Fire of undetermined origin today damaged
the Birmingham stock yards causing a loss of $33,000. Three hundred and fifty beef cattle and 200 hogs were consumed in the blaze.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORE'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

ALABAMA TO STAND SPONSOR FOR ITS ONLY GULF PORT.

Within a few hours the voters of Alabama will be called upon to accept or reject the Port Amendment, which if passed upon favorably—as every sign indicates, means the opening of a still greater destiny to the people of the state, and for that matter to those of all the gulf states. Put in simple language—Alabama is asked to stand sponsor for a great enterprise in its southern section, great in the same way as the Muscle Shoals project is in the northern part of the state. There never was a time when either of these great projects could be spoken of as sectional—as benefiting certain sections only—but if there ever was such a time has passed. The quick means of communication that are being established both for thought and thought's products, has brought every part of the state into close proximity with every other part. What will benefit Mobile county will benefit Morgan, and the other counties of the Tennessee Valley. The state is just one neighborhood, it must develop or dwarf. The same may be said of the entire United States—and for that matter of the entire world. And in this connection it is well to keep in mind that the opening to larger usefulness of the Mobile Bay, will mean a large contribution to a larger development of world trade and commerce. With the present example of slow business occasioned in large part by the present inability of countries beyond the Atlantic, to buy and pay for this nation's products—it will hardly ever be claimed again that we can live to ourselves, and do business with ourselves alone, and be a truly prosperous or helpful nation.

So when Alabamians vote for the Port Amendment, they will not only benefit their state and the United States but the entire world.

If individual sentiment is to be judged by collective sentiment, the success of the port amendment is assured, for is there a single organization, of either church people, merchants, labor people, realtors, or farmers opposed to the passage of the port amendment?

Resolutions supporting the plans of the Port Amendment committee have passed every organization in this section, where such resolutions have been offered. Such a resolution is now in the hands of the resolution committee of the North Alabama Methodist conference now in session at Decatur.

Once again, let voters be informed, that they are not asked to pay for the vast improvements due at the port of Mobile; they are simply asked to stand sponsor for them. The state of Louisiana, took similar action as regarded the improvement of the shipping facilities of the mouth of the Mississippi at New Orleans, and the finished work there, is much more than paying for itself.

Will not Alabama have as much faith and enterprise as Louisiana, and when her people go to the polls, will they not by their sovereign voice declare that the Mobile port improvements shall be made.

ITALIAN POLITICS.

The Fascisti, whose chief Benito Mussolini, has just been charged with the formation of a new ministry, has been described by various American newspapers as an organization similar in many respects to the Ku Klux Klan.

This description, or comparison, is unfair and far fetched.

The Fascisti was organized in 1919 for the purpose of checking the growth of radicalism in Italy, and more especially to prevent the spread of Bolshevism from Russia, agents of the Soviet government having arrived in Italy for the purpose of converting the Italian Socialist.

The leaders of the Fascisti and its members never have maintained any secrecy as to membership or to the objects of the organization.

In the past twenty years the growth of Socialism in Italy has been rapid, and in 1920 the Socialists were in control of the government. This control was followed by a succession of industrial disputes and riots in which the government was either too feeble or too fearful to interfere.

The Fascisti, numbering now something in excess of half a million, is composed for the most part of veterans of the World War drawn from the middle classes and the ranks of the conservatives. In 1920 and 1921, they were popularly known as the "Black Shirts," and companies of them frequently assisted the police and government troops in maintaining order in the industrial centers of Milan and Turin.

Mussolini, who is barely 38 years old, was a Socialist leader prior to the war. His love of country caused him to denounce his party and he founded a newspaper which supported the nation throughout the war. As an editor, he has been consistently hammering on the necessity for the maintenance of a constitutional form of government.

When he threatened the ministry with force, if control of the government was not turned over to his organization, Mussolini employed means that are not to be encouraged, but the circumstances seemed to justify methods that would not be tolerated in ordinary times.

The utter collapse of industry, trade and exchange in Italy in the last days of the Facta government demanded drastic measures, and the pledge of loyalty to the House of Savoy which Mussolini has taken, together with the outline of his policy of government, is reassuring.

Italy is in need of strong men today. Much of the work of the post-war period must be undone, and much must be done over again. Too many men have been kept under arms and too few have been producing the wealth that Italy needs. Mussolini promises to cut expenses to the bone and to balance the budget. It is a gigantic task, and it will take some time for him to accomplish it.

His first job will be to get rid of Parliament, which convenes on November 7. Parliament is not in sympathy with the Fascisti program and the Mussolini ministry will function without its approval. In the ensuing elections he, in all probability, will have a legislature which will go along with him for a time at least.

King Victor Emmanuel made the best of a nasty situation when he called Mussolini to be premier, and the latter has been fortunate in surrounding himself with strong men, both young and experienced in affairs of government.

For the moment, at least, the Italian public is satisfied with the turn affairs have taken.—Nashville Tennessean.

When good men die, just so much of the producing power for good has been removed from that community, and the place is poorer for their passing. These are the ones who help forge new links in the chain of progress along right lines; they give of their best that these things shall prevail; there are tireless workers; they make sacrifices that these things shall be as they give of their substance to help in the cause; they busy themselves with things worth while, leaving the small and penurious things of life to others with less incentive for good. They are much a part of the financial worth of their town expressed in terms of dollars and cents, for a life of this character is beyond computation. As these go out from among us from time to time, many incidents in which they were the chief figure is recalled by those who survive them, incidents of some kindness done, some act of charity or benevolence while in life, which adds to the store of refreshing thoughts in the minds of the friends who remain, and by the example set, are spurred to redouble their diligence along all worthy endeavors.

With the cotton crop of the state worth more than sixty millions above that of the crop of 1921, it is patent indeed that there will be plenty of money in "Ole Alabam" for all purposes. Adding to this the other money crops of the state expressed in both sweet and Irish potatoes, peanuts, hay and corn, these alone will swell the money bags to a bulging capacity. On top of this, there is much cattle and swine to be marketed, and the sorghum and molasses crops thrown in for good measure. A large measure of prosperity is coming this way, and every fellow who is alert can share in at least some of it. Conditions in marketing are far better than any period in the past. The fact that thousands of bales are being held in the ware houses of the country, the property of the Alabama Cotton Pool Association, has been the turning point in the price upward.

Never before has such great programs for conservation of all the natural resources been attempted, or put in operation. Perhaps the greatest asset, the one which offers such large returns for effort expended, is the proper conservation of the young life of the nation. On the proper carrying forward and perfecting it hinges largely the pulsing energizing power, is the receptacle for the truths of life, and these in turn are to transmit it to others. How well they may be prepared for this task, depends in a large measure the manner in which they are instructed in the present. False ideas and ideals must be eliminated if there is to be felt in the civilization of the future, those great uplifting influences, which will prove the balance wheel of distorted thought and guide it aright.

David Lloyd George of England has staged a comeback, this time being elected unopposed to a parliament position. Mr. George is yet much in the public life of England, and is a character who will have to be reckoned with in the public affairs of that island possession. He is a born fighter, and can hold his own with England's greatest parliamentarians. He is quick at repartee, and has a grasp on the affairs of his country which few men possess. During the years of the World war, he was the moving spirit in that country, and due to his dogged determination, aided by the other Allies, the termination of that world struggle was hastened.

The thoughts of all the great men who have lived in the past have radiated their influences down the ages, and it has spread to every corner of the habitable globe, bringing joy and satisfaction to the multitude to have need of its enervating influence.

Without the uplifting influences of these great characters, which has been the source of much of the uplift which has been constantly coming to civilization, there would be a pall hanging over a large portion of the earth. They strike out forward in thought and action, and make new avenues through which less brave feet would dare to walk.

Soon the annual Thanksgiving time will be here, and if ever a nation has cause to be thankful, that time surely is now. We are at peace with the world so far as our great nation is concerned. Our barns and bins are filled with plenty; no scourge has afflicted us, and today we stand on the threshold of another New Year, with the promise of some of the greatest achievements in worth while things, of which we have ever been able to boast. Nature as been in her happiest mood, and caloused indeed must be the mind that has not had cause to look up, and be lifted up in thought to the giver of all good.

There has always been a tendency upon the part of some to forget their obligations taken in each primary election. In every instance they may not be stated in so many words, but they are implied just the same, and those who participate in the primary, are honor bound to support the nominees of the party, whether they like them personally or not. This is Democracy, and any other policy will weaken the party which has flourished so triumphantly through all these years. If the practice of forgetting so soon the obligations expressed or implied when voting in a primary is not corrected, there will of necessity have to be more stringent regulations of elections of this character.

The only thing common about common sense, is that it is frequently not commonly used. Mother wit as we call it, has helped out wonderfully as the problems of life have been met and solved.

The invisible forces are the greatest and cannot be seen with the naked eye.

We boast as well we may of the achievements of the civilization of the present in the arts and sciences, but the fact still remains, that the ancients were possessed, of the ability to pursue in these two lines, to a much greater degree than the present civilization has ever been able to achieve. The monuments which yet survive the centuries and stand as a monument to their inventive genius, has baffled to this day, the greatest artists and the deepest thinkers.

All life is a preparedness. Each day brings forth preparedness for the morrow. We view the past with its achievements or defeats, and in the span of the present day, formulate plans for the morrow with whatever it may hold, confident that the experience gained with the passing day may guard us past the mistakes of yesterday. From youth to old age, the plan is the same. It is a fight, ceaseless fight to hold the footing gained by constant application of the plan spoken of above.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

The hostility of the carnal mind to Christ's divinity is meeting very definite opposition in these latter days. Supporters of Christ's divinity, in the past, have generally either ignored the denials of His divinity or prayed for the offenders and cited a few scripture passages, and prophecies showing the Bible stand as to His Virgin birth, and Divine Sonship. In a word Christ's friends have now gone on the offensive. And His detractors have been forced to defend themselves, instead of attacking others. Just as the German armies had to go on the defensive toward the end of the World war, now faithless writers and speakers have been forced to seek cover. And they must ask the high buildings and mountains to fall upon their foolish selves, or else give some sound constructive reasons for denying Christ's claims. No honest person, wants Christ's divinity accepted merely upon any "ipse dixit," even that of the Bible itself.

Christ Himself offered that if people did not want to accept that He was in the Father and the Father in Him; to believe "for the very work's sake." In other words He challenged: "If I have not made good, condemn and disbelieve in Me." Only one thing need be said to those who claim that Christ was merely a "good man"—namely, "He was too different from any natural man to have had a natural birth, and a father come of Adam's fallen race"! That is the rock-idea, upon which the frail theory-barks of the unbelievers in His Virgin birth, must inevitably go to pieces! Scientists never classify as in the same vegetable family, specimens as dissimilar, as Christ and His earthly brethren!

And no true scientist, and no true philosopher, will attempt to put Christ down on a birth level with mere men! To put Christ's sinless personality along side our miserable sin cursed personalities, is preposterous and revolting! Such a suggestion is absolutely nauseating to any one who has anything like a normal spiritual taste! And there is another consideration. According to Dr. R. H. Bennett's recent conference address—If Christ was born naturally; He was born out of wedlock, and therefore is illegitimate offspring. Filled with righteous indignation, Bennett did say and should have said—that while he did not desire to burn such thinking cattle, he did not want to associate with them! When the Christian world takes Dr. Bennett's attitude, and it is sure to do so sooner or later it will be "goodbye to little professors and such like! Another thing—Bennett said, was not bad, "If Christ did not raise from the dead, an eternal grave suits me; and if He did die like a prairie dog, so would I." Such loyalty, and courage, will cause the devil to be knocked down and dragged out, some sweet day!

TRY IT!

Wearly Willie slouched into the pawnshop.
"How much will you give me for this overcoat?" he asked, producing a faded, but neatly mended garment. Isaac looked at it critically.
"Four dollars," he said.
"Why?" cried Willie. "That coat worth ten dollars if it's worth a penny!"
"I wouldn't give you ten dollars for that overcoat," repeated Isaac.
"Well, here's your four dollars," said Wearly Willie. "This overcoat was hangin' outside yer shop, and was wondering how much it was really worth."

MODERN MOTOR NOTES

Still motors run sweet.
Home is where the car is.
A soft tire turneth away cash.
While there's gas there's hope.
Fools pass on hills and curves.
A wise driver maketh a glad out.
It is better to be slow than sore.
Declines make the wheels go faster.
Dry springs squeak louder than "birds."
To speed is human; to get caught is fine.
As the wheel is bent so the car will go.
Where there's a nail there's a puncture.
A body's as old as its paint; a motor is as old as it pulls.
Spin and the world spins with you, stall and you stall alone.
A lot of people are too busy planning for the future to get much fun out of living in the present.

Newspaper reporters are certainly in a class by themselves. When they meet, one never fails to ask the other: "Well, what do you know?" and the other replies: "Nothing." And the next morning the paper is filled with news.

OLD MOTHER GOOSE

Don't be a back number, get an modern version of Old Mother Goose Rhymes and be miserable. This is fair sample of what we can do when we really try.

This little Ford went to market. Almost twenty miles from home, And this little Ford wasn't greased at all, Its gears were left alone, So this little Ford cried, "Squeak, Squeak, SQUEAK" all the way home.

CHANGE OF CHANGE

Brown—Since I bought a car, don't have to walk to the bank make my deposits.

Black—Ah, you ride there?

Brown—No, I don't make any!

IN RUSSIA

"Why didn't you bring the million rubles as you promised?"
"The drayman charged me the amount for hauling them."

Love makes the world go round but knocking a man on the head has the same effect.

"They say a rolling stone gathers no moss," quoth she.
"Maybe not, but I never saw a tramp yet who didn't need a shave," he replied.

Cities as Thunderstorm Spots.
The conclusion has been reached by a well-known engineer who has visited the subject considerable attention that certain cities, if not indeed most inland cities of say 100,000 population or more, appear to be "thunderstorm spots." The observation has been made by E. R. Horton, of Voochessville, N. Y., who also points out that "a shallow lake with sandy margin located in a forest may serve as a thunderstorm breeder," and cites a proof observation made by him over Guelph lake, New York.

Game in Detail

The Athens Aggies, defeated here Friday, won the hearts of local fans by their clean exhibition of the game. The contest was perhaps the cleanest ever witnessed here, and both squads, while fighting hard, battled cleanly. The game was a big boost for the gridiron game here, the teams reflecting much credit on their schools.

The detail follows:

FIRST QUARTER.

Athens kicked to McAfee. Tuck gained five but lost seven on an attempted pass and Holt punted 40 yards. Tuck broke up a buck on the second play. The Albany line held and the ball went over. Tuck plunged through tackle for 9 yards. A pass from Tuck to Handy was good for a touchdown. Handy kicked goal. Athens 0, Albany 7.

Athens kicked. Tuck made a pretty 15 yard run in returning. Aided by a 20 yard pass to Pepper Albany bucked the ball down the field, but Cagle intercepted a pass and ran it back 20 yards to Holt. No return. The Athens ends covered Cagle's punts well all afternoon. Albany opened a queer shift, wherein the line joined hands and swept to one side of center, the latter passing the ball diagonally to the backfield. McAfee gained 8 yards on the first shift. A layout to Handy from Tuck netted another touchdown, Handy making a splendid race for the distance. Handy failed at goal. Athens 0, Albany 13. Roberts went in for Brackin.

Holt kicked and then took Cagle's punt.

2nd Quarter.

Dodd went in for Speer. Tuck and McAfee made first down, but Athens held and the ball went over. Rogers made first down in two bucks. Pepper hit Coffman who fumbled and Fennel recovered. Holt made two yards and a pass to Handy netted 25. Another pass to Holt took the ball to Athens 10 yard line. Elkins smashed through for 5 yards and Coffman made it first down. Batten halted the advance and Cagle punted to McAfee who returned 15, to the middle of the field.

Passes to Pepper and Handy netted 30 yards. Rogers took time out when he blocked a pass to Handy. Athens held on their 10 yard line. Cagle slipped down the sidelines for a 35 yard advance, being overtaken by Holt, just as time was called.

3rd Quarter.

Speer went in for Dodd. Holt kicked to Elkins. Elkins and Cagle hit the line for first down. Cagle, hit by Fennell, fumbled, Holt recovered and ran for a touchdown, Pepper acting as interference. Holt kicked goal. Athens 0, Albany 20.

Batten's kick went past Elkins over the goal, but Elkins recovered and Holt stopped him on the 8 yard line. Two tries gained 6 yards, but Coffman intercepted a pass and put the ball on the 35 yard line. Coffman fumbled but recovered. Albany held. Tuck made 5. A fumble halted Albany and Holt kicked to Elkins. On the exchange of kicks, Batten fumbled and Williams recovered. A pass failed, but Albany was penalized ten yards for holding. Coffman and Elkins gained 8 yards, but when Batten spilled Coffman the ball went over.

Fourth Quarter.

On the first play of the new quarter a pass from Pepper to Tuck collected another touchdown. Tuck side-stepping his way down the field to elude two tacklers.

Holt failed at goal. Athens 0, Albany 26. Handy's kick was fumbled and Bowen, who was in every play, recovered. A pass to Handy, fake pass by Tuck and a short pass over the line to Holt collected 34 yards. McAfee, Tuck and McAfee bucked a first down on Athens 2 yard line. McAfee went to the one yard line and McAfee carried it over. Batten kicked goal. Albany 33, Athens 0.

Handy kicked to the 15 yard line. Elkins sifted back 10 yards. Cagle punted to Batten. A pass behind the line from Holt to Tuck gained 8. Holt hit the line for first down. McAfee slipped around end for 8. Holt on the same fake Morgan used against Hartselle, raced to Athens 5 yard line, but was called back 15 yards for stepping out of bounds. A pass to Holt gained the last touchdown. Han-ideal way, of life and service, such as heavenly wisdom would dictate.

It was declared that we thought too much about what salvation cost us, and too little about what it costs God.

Rev. E. B. Norton, followed Dr. Brandon's sermon with an earnest prayer. The closing hymn was "I'll go where He wants me to go."

He said Christ was the light of the world—in science as well as in religion. He said Christ freedom to the enslaved, and that men might "walk as conquerors" who accepted Him. Throughout his long, but deeply interesting address the Bishop heaped up reason after reason showing Christ would dominate every part of the life of the world, if given the opportunity. The speaker defined truth as "the harmonious blending of facts in their right relation." "No fact contradicts another fact." "God does not speak in nature and contradict it in revelation." The speaker taught that if we rejected Christ's claims, and His authority over us we would "forge a lifelong sorrow to us."

"When we enter the realm of motive and sit in judgement on the motives of others, we make a mistake" said the Bishop impressively in another part of his discourse. "Darkness is going to settle over you unless Jesus lights up the way." The speaker said Pilate was a politician, and had "sept his name down as infamous," and that "like all politicians, Pilate, became enmeshed in perilous entanglements." "As the burning eyes of the Son of God, searches the chambers of his soul, Pilate with a sneer asks 'what is truth,' as much as to say to Christ 'and are you some young dreamer'?"

Following his sermon the Bishop examined and passed ten ministers into the class of Deacons.

Following this service, the communion of the Lord's supper was celebrated, with a number of ministers assisting the Bishop.

Saturday Night's Session

As the conference hosts were gathering for their regular Saturday's night's session at the First Methodist church a business meeting of the Conference Epworth League was drawing to a close at the near by First Baptist church, where the following officers were elected:

J. T. Carlton, president, H. L. Aldridge, vice president. F. R. Mapes, recording secretary. V. P. Hawkins, treasurer. Executive secretary, Rev. William Graham Echols, of Birmingham.

During the late afternoon of Saturday the conference heard the report of its treasurer, Paul Haley, which showed something over $99,000.00 had passed through his hands the past year for all conference claimants—which amount does not include moneys paid to the Centenary and like funds.

A partial report was made in behalf of the Alabama Christian Advocate, with the understanding that the matter was to be taken up again Monday.

Dr. Fitzgerald Parker of Nashville and Dr. George Stuart of Birmingham, made the principal addresses to the Epworth Memorial meeting Saturday night. Dr. Stuart by his wit, humor and pathos, reproved to old saying that mankind is "a pendulum betwixt a smile and tear." One of the great preacher's wittiest thrusts at the intellectual "lost," was in a story of his about a North Carolina mountaineer, who was so ignorant he could not tell a well set up lost traveler where Asheville, Waynesville, Black Mountain, and other points in the Blue Ridge were—and who when told by the way seeking traveler, that he must be mighty ignorant, replied "Yes, Sir, I is ignorant, but I ain't lost!" The preacher told another one about a fat lady who knew so little about personal work for Christ, that at a mourner's bench all she could say was "Hurry up and get religion or the 'buggers' will get you". As his audience cried with him over an inter-blocked, Cagle broke through the line for a 20 yard dash. A pass from Coffman to Daugherty put the ball on Albany's 11 yard line. On a fake buck Elkins went over around his own left end. Rogers failed at goal.

view of his with his old Sunday school teacher who at the time lived near Friend's Station, Tennessee, all of a sudden Dr. Stuart had everybody laughing with him when he said "And we cried a duet right there!"

Masterly Address by Dr. Parker

Dr. Fitzgerald Parker of Nashville is the General Secretary of the Epworth League, for the entire Southern Methodist church, and his Saturday night address proved he was an independent thinker on both theology and social service. He non-concurred in the wording of the creed formed by Southern Methodists at their Asheville, N. C. General Conference, as regards the spiritual status of infants, and said that he used the old creed words whenever he had occasion. In this connection the speaker denounced any theology that did not recognize the "new birth" as the distinct work of the Holy Spirit. The speaker denounced "snobishness" among religious people, and took occasion, in view of their willingness to destroy life—as they actually did in at least three instances on Boston Commons—to severely criticize the Pilgrim fathers whom the speaker referred to as "religious snobs"—and added that he sang "Faith of our Fathers"? with certain mental reservations. The burden of the first part the speakers address was on "intellectualizing" Christianity, and the last and longest part was on "socializing the gospel." The speaker said that the difference of the church people and of the world generally to know wrong and injustice, proved what a short distance we had gone in "socializing Christianity."

Sunday an active day for religionists

According to published programs, with few exceptions, visiting Methodist ministers occupied local pulpits Sunday morning and at night. The Sunday schools also were addressed in a number of instances, by visiting preachers. Dr. S. T. Slaton addressed the man's class at the Central Baptist church of Albany, usually taught by W. R. Spight. Dr. Slaton in stressed on the observance of the two greatest commandments—Supreme Love to God, and as much love to others as to ourselves. Dr. Whitehead, of the Birmingham district addressed the Wesley Bible Class of the Central Methodist church, usually taught by Melvin Hutson. All the services, both at the Sunday schools and at the churches were largely attended.

This was especially true at the Central Methodist church of Albany, where Dr. George Stuart preached, emphasizing the gospel teaching on love for ones enemies. The convention church—the first Methodist of Decatur, was packed and jammed—the large crowd being drawn hither to hear Bishop W. B. Murrah, who preached from the text—"If any man thirst let him come unto Me and drink".

At three o'clock Sunday afternoon, in this church the annual memorial exercises were held for the preachers of the conference that had departed this life during the past year. Dr. E. M. Glenn presided at this important meeting, and after devotional exercises, including prayers and hymns, touching addresses were delivered in honor of the following sainted ministers: T. A. Carr, W. W. Rutland, J. W. Akin and W. A. Lowrey.

Bishop Murrah in great Sermon. Following the musical program, as led by Miss Lucile Bailey, organist, Dr. Fitzgerald Parker, conducted the devotions at the First Methodist church, Sunday morning.

Bishop Murrah, then stood and delivered a highly edifying sermon, in which explained that Christ, met every requirement—every obligation of God, and every need of the human family.

The Bishop said that Christ invited the throng at the temple feast where He was when the invitation—"If any man thirst let him come unto Me", was first given, because of compassion. The speaker said Christ was drink to the thirsty soul; and the bread of life to the hungry soul.

Barn And Contents Destroyed By Fire

J. B. Patterson, of Lacon, lost a fine barn and contents by fire Sunday night. In the barn was stored a large amount of baled hay and other feedstuff. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been from a spark, as the woods were burning nearby. Fire was discovered at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, and the barn and its contents was consumed at a rapid rate, as everything was very dry and the contents very inflammable. It is not known whether insurance was carried or not. The barn was a fine structure of the kind, practically new and painted.

Report Made On Tax Collections

During the month of October there has been collected by the county tax collector approximately as follows: For the state general tax, $1250; special soldier tax, $500; special school tax, $1500; poll tax, $600; general tax for county, $2,500; special road and bridges, $1,250; special school for county, $1,500. This is in excess considerably over the amount collected a year ago: Tax Collector Hill is with the assessor today at Priceville, taking the place of Office Deputy Frank J. Davis, who for the past two weeks has been with the assessor, while the collector was detained at home during the illness and death of his daughter, Mrs. J. E. Peck. The first round over the county is half completed, most of the remaining dates being at places along the railroad.

Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm. Doorn Castle. Princess Hermine.

DOORN, Nov. 6.—The former German emperor and his bride began their honeymoon today with no place to go. They were married yesterday at the house where the one time kaiser spends his hours in exile and there they remained today.

The ceremonies that united them were witnessed by 28 guests and were kept from the sight of the villagers of Doorn and the host of correspondents and cameramen with a secrecy that was both studied and mysterious to the 28 who partook of the wedding repast.

Worthington Urges Voters To Cast Ballots For Seaport Amendment

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3, 1922.

To the Voters of Albany, Decatur, and Morgan County:

I have no influence and seek none to control or direct a single one of your votes at the election next Tuesday. I do seek, however, to place before you some very vital facts with reference to the obligation of every voter in Albany, Decatur, and Morgan County.

Senator Underwood and Congressman Oliver in their speeches in Pickens County a few days ago both said that the Muscle Shoals-Ford case and the Alabama Seaport Amendment for Mobile Harbor go together hand in hand. This is true, but they go closer together with you, and together they enforce upon you a greater obligation to vote for the Port Amendment than upon any other voters in the State.

We who stand and contend for the acceptance of the Ford offer by Congress rest one of our principal arguments and contentions upon the credit of the federal government to get cheaper money to build the dams, locks and power houses at Muscle Shoals, and with this cheaper government money to get cheaper power for Alabama; and we insist that Henry Ford proposes to pay interest on the entire cost of the dams, locks and power houses and within a period return the entire future investment cost of the same. And just in the same way and just as righteously, the Alabama Seaport Amendment advocates ask the credit of the State of Alabama, which state credit will cost the voter nothing now nor in the future.

If we who stand and contend for the acceptance of the Ford offer are sound in our arguments and contentions that it is to the welfare of the nation and the proper thing that Congress give the government's credit with cheaper money to develop Muscle Shoals, then in all fairness and consistency we are bound to be willing to vote for the Alabama Seaport Amendment and extend the credit of the State for the development of Mobile Harbor.

Not only so, and we ought not to forget it, when North Alabama called on the people of the State, to meet in mass meeting at Montgomery to declare that the people of Alabama desired Congress to accept Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals, Mobile answered your call, not weakly, but with a strong vocal committee, and North Alabama ought not to be ungrateful, unappreciative, forgetful. Therefore, every sentiment of state pride, every principle of consistency, and every feeling of gratitude call on you to vote for the Port Amendment next Tuesday.

When you vote against the amendment you repudiate one of the important principles of the Ford offer. When you vote against the amendment you cast a vote of ingratitude for Mobile's response to your appeal to send a strong delegation, and she did, to the memorable mass meeting held in Montgomery, March 1 this year.

J. W. WORTHINGTON.

THANKS

The editor of The Daily is grateful for the presentation by Judge S. L. Cook, of some delicious Black Diamond apples, grown in the orchard of his son R. W. Cook of Bentonville, Ark. Mr. Cook has 50 acres of apple trees on his farm in Arkansas. The samples presented The Daily office are beauties. Thanks.

Too Much to Ask?

It is suggested by a public speaker that the voter should know the candidate; should know the duties of the office and should know whether the candidate is fitted for those duties. However, we must not ask too much of many voters or they will be losing all of their interest in our elections. —Detroit News.

Ellis Answers The Criticism of Kilby

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 6.—

Declaring that a criticism of him contained in a recent expression on the part of Governor Thomas E. Kilby, is unjust, George W. Ellis, state treasurer, in a statement issued Saturday, replying to a statement by the Governor, appearing in Alabama newspapers, Friday, says that though he is grateful to the Governor for appointing him treasurer to complete the unexpired term of the late Judge Bradley, if any conditions accompanied the appointment, the Governor should have notified him at the time. Governor Kilby in his statement published Friday, criticised Mr. Ellis for appointing one of his daughters chief clerk and retaining another daughter as assistant clerk.

With regard to the appointment, Mr. Ellis says it was the only appointment left open when he took over the duties of state treasurer; that his daughter was not an applicant for the place; that it was tendered her by him, and that she resigned the position to accept it. He states also that: "It is a matter of comment that the Governor in criticizing me for appointing a member of my family to a position in the office when it has been practiced during his entire administration by other departments of the state and he has made no effort, so far as I am advised, to check it, at least he has not openly criticised the heads of the departments as in my case."

WHERE A CANNON IS WORSHIPPED AS A SAINT.

BAGDAD—the very name brings to mind pictures of oriental grandeur and magnificence, of gayly-colored streets, of bazaars and of dancing girls. It suggests "The Arabian Nights"—of all Bells and the Forty Thieves, of Scheherazade.

The Women Bring Their Babies.

and of Aladdin and his wonderful lamp. Like most Asiatic cities, there is an old town and a new town in Bagdad. The new town is uninteresting—and not. The mercury soars anywhere from 90 to 122 deg. Although situated on the Tigris, the river gives little relief. The old town is just as torrid, but is much more interesting to the traveler. To reach the part of Bagdad you must cross the Tigris by a most unusual bridge built on thirty pontoons. Immediately the atmosphere changes.

When you cross the bridge you leave today and go back to the Middle Ages—to the ninth century—when Bagdad was the seat of elegance and of grandeur—to the time when Zobeide, the favorite wife of Haroun el Raschid, held sway. Her tomb is there, built of bricks, in a high octagonal shape, with its lofty superstructure in the form of a cone. Here one wanders in and out the maze of winding streets, so narrow that two horsemen have difficulty in passing. The streets are crowded, as are the bazaars and temples. We fancy the women of the crowd in Bagdad must wear gayly colored dresses. On the contrary, they wear ugly, coarse, cotton-dressed of blue and white check, and atrocious veils of horse hair.

A group of these daughters of the East may always be found outside the Citadel gate. There stands the "Canon of Victory." This old Persian gun is supposed to be the work of miracles. The Arabs believe it is the spirit of an angel who took the form of a cannon to help the Sultan Murad, a very holy man, in one of his battles.

Women bring their babies to the gun. They pass them over under and around the weapon. They put the heads of the babies in the mouth of the barrel, hoping that contact with the "Angel Gun" will give strength and courage to their children. Yes, this old gun literally is worshipped.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Why You Ought to Use More Nuts in Cookery.

THE home cook is beginning to have a wider appreciation of the value of nuts in cookery, due, perhaps, to the introduction of many foreign dishes in our restaurants. Also, nuts are more attractively put up, salted or shelled, for cooking purposes than ever before.

English walnuts and almonds are general favorites. Hazel nuts, Brazil nuts and pecans are excellent, too, but do not cook well. Almonds come in three grades. The special of California is the finest, and the Jordan, perhaps, the largest. Those from Tarazon have hard shells, but are good and full-meated for use in cooking. California walnuts are considered the finest, while Missouri grows the best pecans. The best means the thinnest-shelled, full-meated, largest nut.

Pistachio nuts from Armenia are excellent and not unduly expensive if purchased in the native shops. Some come already salted in the shell. The Pili and Luzon nuts from the Philippines are not as well known as the others, but are excellent for cooking purposes where they can be obtained. The crescent-shaped cashew nut, native to the West Indies, is delicate and tender, and not only salts well, but is delicious added to sauces when chopped fine. The pine nut is the sweet of "nutdom," and enriches any dish to which it may be added.

The uses and sources of the nuts and peanuts are well known. Freshly roasted peanuts may be rolled fine and added to muffins, salad dressing or chopped steak, or mixed with sugar and spice and sprinkled on top of a lemon coffee cake before baking, and these are a few of the ways in which they are valuable. A cupful of chopped nuts, a cupful of crumbs, a half-cupful of grated cheese, a minced pepper, juice of an onion, seasoning, a beaten egg and a little cream, mixed together and baked in well-buttered ramekins, then turned out and masked with tomato sauce make an excellent and also a cheap meat substitute.

A small nutmeat grinder is a good investment for the nuts are quickly and easily prepared in this way for cooking. Honey, brown sugar and maple syrup or sugar combine with nuts well. Whipped cream, chocolate, cocoa, coconut cream prepared from the fresh nut, heavy cream and white of egg are best to combine with them for desserts.

An unusual treat is a Syrian stuffing for roast chicken. Take a cupful of fine crumbs, a cupful of chopped pistachio nuts, a cupful of chopped almonds, a quarter-cupful of honey, three-quarters of a cupful of oil, and a teaspoonful of powdered dried mint. Mix well, then stuff and roast the chicken as usual. Roast the bird on its breast so that the juices run into the breast meat, and put a small half of garlic in the pan in order that the dripping may have a faint flavor which, in time, is imparted to the bird with frequent basting.

"Aye," replied the farmer—then, after a pause, and let me put the same question to you—if ye had been offered a bigger fee wad ye no be been on the other side yerself?"—Boston Transcript.

Many Bug Varieties.

We have in the United States a long list of insects we usually designate as beetles. There are some 15,000 different kinds of them, and they range in size all the way from little ones that it almost requires the use of a microscope to see, to such giants as the Spotted Horn beetle, American Forestry Magazine.
